NEWS DECODER

A global educational news service for young people

2023 at a glance

Student stories were read by

Thanks to your support, News Decoder soared to new heights in 2023. Take a look at our year in review. We look forward to continued growth in 2024 and beyond.

21 academic partners in

15

countries, spanning 5 continents.

Seasoned correspondents helped youth and adults alike decode complicated world headlines.

Of our 170+ total stories published, the Top 5 correspondent stories read in 2023 were:

- Trans rights becomes a life and death issue in Peru
- With an economy in crisis, Sri Lankans migrate out for jobs
- The United Nations struggles to be the world's peacekeeper
- What happens when friendship has no benefits?
- Decoder: Why Japan matters more than ever 325,000+

site views this year to date, with top readership from India, the United States, the Philippines, Pakistan and the United Kingdom.

40

active correspondents in our network writing on topics ranging from climate change to migration to extreme sports. thousands around the world. Through the publication process, students learned critical media literacy skills.

Our Top 5 student stories read in 2023 were:

- Can we prevent social media from harming our mental health?
- Studying an intelligent animal using artificial intelligence
- Student athletes face added pressure to succeed
- Climate change is stressing us out.
  Can good come of that?
- A worldwide movement to protect the Spanish Greyhound global webinars hosted as part of our mission to promote ongoing learning and cross-border collaboration. Topics included human trafficking, the Russia-Ukraine War and the future of journalism.

9

2,100+

students and faculty registered on our members-only learning platform, granting access to our publishing portal, e-learning courses and webinar archives.

€3,000,000+

awarded to News Decoder and our partners through three new institutional grants from the European Commission focused on climate education, podcasting and media literacy.